About

In the early thirties, an enterprising gentleman acquired his very own kingdom and set himself a challenge of turning it into an island paradise. Over many years, Wallace Groves transformed Little Whale Cay into an oasis. Secured by a seawall around the perimeter, he cut a deep water harbor, constructed the 2,000 ft runway and built the imposing main house overlooking the beach and lighthouse.

No island paradise would be complete without a church, a downtown village, duck pond, tennis court, two guest residences and, just for good measure, a sprinkling of peacocks, flamingos and other feathered friends.

The staff quarters are situated “downtown” where essential services like generators and water makers quietly provide the necessary comforts. Little Whale Cay is situated in the heart of the Bahamas and less than one hour flying time from Fort Lauderdale, Florida, which means hassle free transfers.

Banish the winter blues on your very own private paradise island where the sun shines a balmy nine hours a day from November to May.

With dashes of “Thirties” Cuban style, the main house centers on an airy, open-plan living salon – with a pitched pine roof, bay windows, bar and dining area – that leads to a kitchen and an ensuite double bedroom. Upstairs a master bedroom and study with sea view balconies occupy the entire floor. Décor is light and relaxed, with wooden floors, pickled pine furnishings, cool white fabrics and comfy sofas, characterized by some lovely period details: original tiles, mosaics, antique lamps and bathroom fittings; true in spirit, easy as finding conch shells on the shore.

A courtyard garden with covered BBQ and dining leads to a parasol-shaded breakfast patio, where the sea glints through the palms and a coral stone stairway curves down to a private white sand beach and oceanfront bar.

Flamingo House

The pretty, sunny, red-tiled Flamingo House has four bedrooms, a sitting and dining room, kitchen and seaview terrace. It nestles in undulating lawns of coconut palms, banyan, citrus and tamarind trees, where peacocks sleep in the shade, close by the flamingo and duck ponds.

Peacock House

A simple white and pastel-painted heart-stealer, Peacock House has one king-size en suite double bedroom, a sitting room, kitchen and hammock-strung veranda, its white wooden décor offset with pink, lilac and sky blue. Set on a grassy rise on the island's south coast, steps from the swimming pool, it enjoys dreamy views over the Berry Islands.

Activities

On the island:

- Full range of water sports including diving, snorkeling, sailing, kayaking and windsurfing
- Deep sea fishing, bone fishing in world class fishing grounds

- Satellite TV / DVD, high speed 24 hour internet connection in all houses, small library of books, iPod-docking system, music, films and games
